Continuation Sheet (PTO-303)

Continuation of 3. NOTE: The amendment to claims 1, 5, 6, and 8 changes the scope and requires further consideration and search. Amendment to claim 1 (part 4) brings in new limitation.

Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: The Applicant's argument on the recycle and the concentration of dialkyl biphenyls is not persuasive as previously discussed in the last Office action (Page 6, paragraph 2). The Applicant's argument on the 4,4'-dialkylbiphenyl having high melting point that will precipitate as a crystal, when cooled, is not persuasive and was addressed in the last Office action (Page 6, paragraph 4). These limitations were not included in the claims. The Applicant's argument that Mitsao has an object of preparing 4-alkyl products with selectivity and it does not disclose a method of reducing the content of 4,4'-dialkyl biphenyls in the product, is not persuasive as previously discussed in the last Office action (Page 7, paragraph 2).
